have to do a better job as a district in making sure that we find those research based interventions and train individuals in those including Title One teachers to be able to use them when appropriate as well as targeting the area that is deficient – the area of need. The Title One teachers are certified elementary teachers – they don't necessarily have reading specialist credentials, but we want to increase the level of skill for all of our teachers so there's versatility. We are getting Wit & Wisdom because we want to make sure the core (the first level) of teaching is as strong as it possibly can be and then when there are other levels of support needed, there are individuals trained to be able to help support those learners toward the goal of being proficient readers.
